

Instrument Training Fee Discount for Newly Appointed Faculty
Micro/Nano Technology Division, Core Facility Center
National Cheng Kung University

The Core Facility Center at National Cheng Kung University (NCKU) is equipped with a comprehensive suite of advanced instruments for research in micro/nano Technology. Faculty members are encouraged to take full advantage of the Center' s equipment and training resources. In recognition of the limited research resources often available to the newly appointed faculty, the Micro/Nano Technology Division offers the following training fee discount program, valid for three years from the official appointment date:

1. Full waiver of training course fees for newly appointed faculty who personally attend instrument training sessions.
2. 50% discount on training course fees for students under the supervision of the newly appointed faculty.

We warmly welcome new faculty to make full use of this support program!